

Stanford | Department of Statistics

SCHOOL OF HUMANITIES AND SCIENCES

March 13, 2023

Dear Jiangshan Yu,

Thank you for your application to the master's program in the Department of Statistics and Data Science. The review of applications is now complete. We received many competitive applications for very few openings, and after much thought and careful consideration of your application, we regret to inform you that the department is unable to offer you admission.

It is always difficult for us to write this kind of letter to many deserving students. Our admissions process is thorough and as fair as possible, but inevitably we have to compare people with vastly different backgrounds and strengths. We regret that due to restricted resources it is not possible to provide applicants with an individual response regarding admission.

We truly appreciate your interest in the department and wish you every success in your future studies.

Sincerely,

M.S. Admissions Committee
Department of Statistics